There is a notification bar at the top with posts like "hide your profile" that nobody is answering, but looks as if they have at least one answer (3 upvotes and a comment from 2010-05-22 10:19:23Z). Can these posts be answered? A: I'm not sure what questions you are referring to, but I can tell you that 'hide your profile' questions and answers never get deleted. They do however get locked for the duration of the "cooling off" period. So in that particular case the questions are no longer considered to have answers. They also cannot be edited. This is not to say that they can't be improved; there is a process for that to occur. A: I checked and it looks like those questions are locked and not any of mine; but I'm guessing they were answered by you! That question, for example, was asked three years ago and had one answer. You answered, and it was accepted, and you've now been given a bounty. It shows you still have an account so I assume you can answer these locked questions.
