Tags Tags in Outlook 2010 are objects that can be used to store information about an object such as a mail message, attachment, task, or calendar event. Tag objects can be used to make the editing of items in Outlook more user friendly and to make searching and filtering easier. Tags are a standard feature of Microsoft Outlook, and they are usually used to group objects together by various criteria, such as sender, recipients, date, or message type. Tags can be applied to a single object, or they can be applied to multiple objects simultaneously. Tags are used in one of two ways:

- You can use Tags to identify an object. For example, you can create a tag called "flowers" that identifies all messages with the sender "Natalia."
- You can use Tags to group objects. For example, you can create a tag called "Spring" that identifies all messages with the subject "spring." When you tag an object, you are identifying it. 1. What is a Mail Merge? • A Mail Merge is a professional way of creating envelopes, business cards, letterheads, brochures, and other printed material.
